Republicanism in France. The new French minister to this country, the Marquis de Noailles, is a litterateur as well as politician, and his opportunities for observation of the present position of affairs in France having been remarkably good, his opinions as to the present condition and future prospects of the country are more likely to be correct than those of the most intelligent foreign observers. He seems to have unbosomed himself very freely on these topics to a reporter of the New York Herald a few days since. He thinks France is in a fair way of repairing the terrible destruction caused by the war. Nearly all the public buildings, houses and bridges which have been destroyed are being restored, public confidence has returned, and the republic is now on a firmer lasis than it was even a few months ago. He is of the opinion that the republic will remain the ultimate form of government, and believes that it is best adapted to the wishes of the masses in France. M. Thiers' government is doing wonders in repairing disasters and paying off the war debt-His death would be a great misfortune to France under the present circumstances, for the government is as yet so unsettled that M. Thiers is indispensable. But he has never been in better health than now. He will, probably, live many years yet. The term of the present National Assembly will expire in about eighteen months. Then there will be another election, and to judge by the feeling of the country, a large majority of republicans will be returned to the next Assembly. The left center, or the moderate republicans of the present Assembly, represent the public sentiment, and they will constitute the majority. There will then, probably, be two Chambers-a higher and a lower one-as we have in this country. If heaven spares M. Thiers' life for at least two years louger, says the Marquis, the republic will be consolidated, and then its existence will not depend on the life of a single man. He does not believe there is any truth in the report that there is a plan afoot to supersede M. Thiers by a triumvirate, censisting of Marshal McMahon, General Ladmirault and Duc de Broglie, and there is no chance whatever for the return of Napoleon. The French people are heartily sick of the empire. Besides, the Emperor is old and infirm, and has signally shown his incapacity.

It is a noticeable fact while most of the liberal and democratic stump speakers indulge in much personal abuse of General Grant those on the other side in the main speak kindly of Mr. Greeley, and devote themselves principally to fair and legitimate criticism of his political record. In his speech at Wilmington, North Carolina, on Thursday last, Senator Wilson said: "There are good and pure men in each party, and there are not propose to say anything against Mr. Greeley or Mr. Brown; they are both old political and personal friends. I come here not to speak of men. Grant and Greeley are before you; but the contest is not between men, but between the ideas and principles of two grand organizations." In reference to the rebellion, he paid the following manly tribute to southern valor: "No braver men ever lived than you of the south. You gave your lives and property for your cause; but you expected at the close of the war subjugation; that some of your men would be imprisened and tried and some executed; but not a man has been tried for treason. I have in my pessession letters from numbers of southern soldiers, among them thirteen confederate generals, thanking me for kindness to them while confined in my state during the war, and one from Alexander H. Stephens, who was released from Fort Warren, and finally altogether. through my intervention, stating that he owed his life to me." The Senator said he would not disguise the fact that the result of the election in North Carolina would exert a great influence upon the vote of the country at the presidential election, and said the people will regard the vote of North Carolina as the settlement of the

Now that there seems to be something like an awakening among capitalists as to the eligibility of the District of Columbia for manufactories of different kinds, on account of our really superior facilities in the way of water power, the advantages of Rock creek should not be overlooked by those in search of sites for manufacturing purposes. This stream within the limits of the District pessesses a force which is estimated by careful engineers to be about two hundred and seventy-five horse power. It already furnishes a motive power for five or six mills, and the entire power is far from being utilized. The fall of water within the District limits is about two hundred feet and within the space of one mile there is a fall of ninety-four feet. Practical manufacturers need only be told of this to place a proper estimate on the value of the stream for manufacturing enterprises. If the whole power of the creek were made available (and it could be done with but little trouble) and steam used during the few weeks of the year when the water is low, this stream might be made a source of wealth to enterprising individuals, and would tend to materially enhance the prosperity of the

New York is famous for knaves of all kinds. some of whom must be possessed of wonderful genius for raising the wind. Some time since we alluded to the sharp practice of publishing biographies, made up of sketches of the lives of unknown politicians and business men, who were allowed to centribute their own sketches, provided they would pay a large price-say $50 er $100 for the book when published. This scheme has worked pretty well, and the compilers of the biographies have made a good thing speculating on the vanity of their victims. In w York, a few days since, Wm. H. Tweed, er, was required not only to pay for one copy and half a dozen, at $50 each. He demarred, int suit was brought against him by the "publaker," and the court gave judgment against I weed. This was paying pretty dear for his a bistle, as, of course, no one will every read e volumes of biographies, except the greenas emba med in them, and they will coubtless content themse. SOME OF THE RESULTS OF THE STRIKES .-It is a fact that during the recent labor strikes in New York and other cities the leaders in the main made no allusion to the subject of cooperation as a means of relief for the laboring classes. It is one of the compensations of the agitation, however, to know that that notwithstanding this omission of the leaders, the principles of co-operation have been more generally recognized since the strikes. In the small town of Bloomington, Illinois, a co-operative work ingmen's society has been formed with a capita ef 80,000, and others are talked of elsewhere. Another . esult of the strikes is that in St. Louis and other places master builders have adopted the plan of paying the.'r men by the hour. The latter plan has also been ado, ted by the Chicago Rock Island and Pacific Rain oad Company and is said to work very satisfactorily.

Washington, it appears, is not the only city pothered about the garbage and night-soil Chestions. A committee of the health board of Baltimore being much perplexed at the objections by citizens to every arrangement they made, finally resolved to visit the cities to the porth and east and see what they could ascertain about the existing methods in those sections. After an inspection of New York, Philadelphia, and Brooklyn, they find the trouble there even greater than in Baltimore, and have extended their trip to Boston to ascertain how they manage the great corporation difficulty

It is thought in Madrid that the men who tried to assassinate Amadeus belong to the same faction or gang of conspirators that killed Gen. Prim, and it is expected that at their coming trial some important developments will be made in reference to Prim's murder. The cowardly attempt to assassinate the King has increased his strength and weakened the opposition, as such attempts generally do. He did think of resigning the crown, but after this, if he is as plucky as he seems to be, he will "stick" at all hazards. nual C mmut ication will be held on WED-NESDAY ENENING, 24th instant, at 80 clock. jy 22-3t P. as much to do with shortening it as disease. They are in fact the source of many ailments and physical disabilities. Nervous weakness, dyspepsia, affections of the liver, disturbances of the bowels, headaches, hypochendria and menomonia are among these distressing fruits. It is, therefore, of great importance that persons whose minds are oppressed Thousands of persons thus circumstanced are en-with heavy business responsibilities, or harrassed by family troubles, or excited by speculation, or perplexed by a multiplicity of enterprises, or in any way overtaxed or overworked, should keep up their stamina by the daily use of a wholesome tonic abled to bear up against the difficulties in which they are involved, and to retain their strength, health and mental clearness, by the regular use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Diseases which are prone to attack the body when debilitated and broken down by over-much brain work, or exhaust ing physical labor, are kept at bay by the resistant power with which this incomparable tonic endows the nervous system and the vital organs. At this season, when the heat is evaporating the elements of strength from every pore, an invigorant is absolutely essential to the safety and comfort of the public, and is required even by the more robust if they defire to keep their athletic capabilities in status que. Hence a course of Hostetter's Bitters is particularly useful at this period of the year as a defence against the invisible disease afloat in a sultry atmosphere. It is the most potent of all preventive medicines, and for all complaints which affect the stemach, the liver and the bowels, and interfere with the perfect digestion and assimilation of food, it is the standard remedy. jy22-eo3t&W

Extract from Report of a Board of Medical Officers Convened to Examine Samples of Trusses.

"The Board is of the opinion that the above principles (viz: those which belong to a proper Truss) are best carried out by the Truss, samples of which were submitted by Messrs. Bartlett, Butman & Parker, of Chicago, and by the well-known Chase's Truss, (made by several firms.)

These patterns are therefore recommended by the Board, as those best adapted in their opinion for the purposes indicated in the Act of Congress entitled. An Act to provide for furnishing Trusses, etc."
